

It was a cold day in New York city just like any other day at this place. The whole place was dark, snow sprinkled down on the now abandoned New York city not a single soul on the cold and empty streets, there weren't even any cars. Except for for two teenaged cousins, one a girl and one a boy, their names were Kelly and Sami. Kelly who had long black hair and dazzling blue eyes wore a soft brown winter coat with white tights and brown boots, Sami who had short dark brown hair with dark blue eyes, wore a heavy coat that has a shade of a dark maroon with a faded pair of jeans and black boots. The snow crunched underneath their boots as they walked through the now ruined New York city.

For a moment there was silence but then Kelly decided to start a up a conversation. "So Sami i heard that the town is gonna try and fix this old place up are you gonna participate?"

"Nah this town is already a lost cause, besides even if I didn't think that I still wouldn't participate its to much work." He replied.

"Yea but you should help I mean there's no telling until you try!" She said.

Just at that moment Sami tripped and fell in a large pile of snow, as Kelly laughed Sami got up to see what he tripped on. When he brushed off the snow he saw a huge lump and continued to dig. Soon Kelly stoped laughing and started to help Sami dig and soon they uncovered a huge object with some writing on it.

"Don't open until 2121." Kelly read aloud

"I guess that means we can open it now!" She said

As Kelly tried pried open the lid the wind got colder, even with gloves on their hands they fell numb, it was so cold that they could just smell it in the air as if there was a ghost right beside them. Just as they were about to finally pop off the lid a figure attacked them and tried to strangle Kelly, but Kelly jumped out of the way just in time. She grabbed Sami's arm and started to run, as they ran the figure chased after them and every time the figure got close it tried to snatch the capsule away from them, after a while they decided to take a break in a near by forest and hope that the figure didn't see them.

"Oh why did this happen one minute we were just digging up a regular old time capsule and the next minute we are being chased but a random person." Kelly said.

"I wonder why they are even chasing us." Responded Sami.

As soon as he said that, a bush started to shake and out popped 4 figures, two were tall and one was short and the last one was medium.

"We can answer that." Said one of the tall figures.

"That entity you just encountered is the one responsible for the fall of new York city." The smallest one said.

"And we are gonna be the ones to defeat them! And you're gonna help us!" The second tallest said.

As soon as they said that they whisked away Kelly and Sami faster than the speed of light, as the the people dragged Kelly and Sami they passed several trees all looking relatively the same until they go to the 23rd tree then it started to look like the leaves were unnatural colors, colors like pink, blue, purple, black, white and even cyan! When they passed all of the colorful trees there was a hole that looked very deep but there were lights at the bottom. Then without a warning one of the figures pushed Kelly and Sami down the hole. At first Kelly closed her eyes and waited for the worst but surprisingly the ground was soft like they were sitting on a huge marshmallow. Soon after Kelly and Sami fell the figures also jumped down and picked up both Kelly and Sami and set them down near a table and all of the figures got seated.

As they got comfortable the tallest figure started to speak.

"So we need to come up with a plan-" but before they could finish Kelly interrupted them.

"Now hold on a minute you basically just kidnaped us and know you're discussing a battle plan!?"

As soon as Kelly said that the room grew silent after a minute or so the medium figure talked.

"We are deeply sorry for that but we saved you did we not and our only intentions is to take down the figure that attacked you."

Kelly calmed down and started to look at Sami signaling him to add more to the conversation.

"I have a question, why were we targeted of all people, we haven't done anything at least I don't think so."

As Sami finished they all started to ponder.

"Well what did you do when they started to attack you?"

Asked the second tallest.

"Well Kelly was trying to open this capsule we have here then we just got attacked out of nowhere!"

As soon as Sami finished his sentence Kelly started to get up and was climbing the ladder to get to the over world with the time capsule.

"Hey where are you going!?" Sami said while chasing after her.

"If the person who attacked us wants this time capsule we better just give it to them instead of risking another attack and getting hurt!" Replied Kelly.

"Yea but if they were desperate enough to attack us for it then there is probably something very important!" Said Sami but it was already too late Kelly was already on the surface and heading to the city. Sami then tried to run after her but then the smallest of the figures graded him and started to talk.

"Ill help you talk to her, it will be better if you had someone who could explain better."

Sami nodded and him and the person went up to the surface and chased down Kelly. They got to her when she was just about to enter the city. Before she could even take a step Sami graded her hand and pulled her back which made them tumble back and crash into each other.

"Let me go Sami just because the guy wants the time capsule docent mean it will be any use to us!" Kelly said too Sami with much annoyance in her tone.

"But we have to confirm it first let me look inside the capsule could be something dangerous so we might as well check!" Said the small figure as he reached for the capsule. When Kelly gave it to him she felt a shiver down her spine like shouldn't trust them but she gave it to them anyways. As they took it they began to smile and started laughing then they pushed both Sami and Kelly down.

"You fools you just handed over just what I need! Now I can prevent new York city from being a great city again!" As they said that Kelly realized who they really were they were none other than the entity that attacked them.

As the entity stand's before them they started to laugh maniacally until they spoke.

"Now that you foolish children has given me what I needed, I will finally destroy once and for all!" Said the entity between laughs.

"What is even in the time capsule!?" Asked Kelly with a confused but scared manner.

"Oh is just something that could restore new York city but you just gave it up to me!" Said the figure as they let out a chuckle.

"See I told you Kelly that it was something important!" Said Sami with much frustration in his tone.

"Now is not the time to say "I told you so." Now come on!" As soon as Kelly said that the entity started running and Kelly grabbed Sami's hand and started to chase after the entity. They chased each other for a while but it felt like an eternity to the cousins, when they had finally stopped running they cornered the entity and made sure that they couldn't get out. As they held the entity down and took the capsule away from them and let them go.

"Now tell us why did you plunge new York into despair!" Kelly said as she had backed away.

"I just wanted to make people feel what I felt when I was alone" said the entity with their voice cracking.

"Well that not ok either way just because who suffer docent mean everyone else has to and even if you're suffering remember you're not alone." As Kelly said that she reached out her hand for the entity to take and as the entity took it, Sami Kelly and the entity went to go make nw York a better place again.
